

Contagious mayhem

You can find the game on your phone's app store under the name "Tarttuva sekasorto" or "Contagious Mayhem." Download the game to your phone.

Open the game and choose the language and difficulty level. Start the game.

Good to know:

- At the top left corner of the screen, there is a red immunity bar. This decreases if microbes hit you.
- Below it, there is a blue bar indicating the amount of spray. You use the spray to shoot microbes.
- At the top right corner of the screen, you can see the number of levels (10). Below that, you can see the remaining number of microbes on different levels and the amount of coins. You earn coins for each completed level and from school premises' floors, and you can use them to buy things like medicine or upgrade your equipment.
- At the bottom of the screen, on the left, there is a movement button, next to it there's a backpack (to where you can buy equipment), and on the right, there's a spray bottle to shoot microbes.

Contagious mayhem

The game starts when you walk through the red wall. Each level has a different number and types of microbes, and the game gets more difficult with each level. Move around the school and shoot microbes with the spray bottle. If the spray runs out, refill it at the sink. First, clean the biofilm to fill the bottle.

Once you have defeated all the microbes, a 60-second grace period begins. During this time, you can, for example, visit the nurse to buy medicine, upgrade your equipment at the cleaner's room, or upgrade the school facilities with the janitor. After this, you return to the safe area, and the next level begins.

You can prevent the formation of microbes by visiting the janitor to purchase upgrades. You can fix classroom and hallway's air conditioning units, add coatings to tables, and replace manual faucets with automatic ones. These actions reduce the formation of microbes and make the gameplay easier.

Different sprays are effective against different types of microbes. At the cleaner's room, you can buy new spray bottles and cleaning agents. Here you can also see which cleaning agent is effective against which type of microbes.

The game ends when you complete all 10 levels. You can start the game over at any time. Enjoy playing!
